Daughters of Revolution Now in Paris Split Up Over Tea Party. SPECIAL BY CABLE.

Parls, July 21.-(Copyright, 1900, by W. R. Hearst.)-Another "merry war" has broken out among the American ladies here in con nection with the exhibition. This time the principal figures in the fray are Mrs. Danlei Manning, president of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Spot-tiswood Mackin of St. Louis, who has obtained a title of Countess in the usual way from the Vatican.

The war is a tea fight in every sense of the word, since it is all over a tea party.

Mrs. Spottiswood Mackin, at one of the Washington meetings of the Daughters of the Revolution, invited the Daughters attend a tea party and reception at her house here during the exhibition, having the date to be arranged by Mrs. Manning. The latter now refuses to hame a day or to have anything to do with Mrs. Mackin, and part of the Daughters of the Revolu-

They Were Betrothed in Poland, and Girl Came to America for the Wedding.

After waiting five months in the vain Whose bride to be cloped with her hope that the girl who had promised to marry him would come back to keep her pledge, John Lake, a Polish laborer, yesterday returned to the Courthouse the marriage license which had been issued to him and Annie Sharpulite last February, The only explanation be would venchante to he livers office chris was; "She gone," and he harried away before any more questhem could be neked.

hale is not now employed, and was seen at his house yesterday afternoon. He lives in the year of No. 132 North Elighta tiert. The windows and door of his rooms were elect first, in spite of the heat, It ook continuous knacking to bring him to the door, and then, through the services of us of his neighbors, who speaks Polish, als story was learned.

According to his tale he has been in this country about four years. He said that he ame from a town named oldfin, in Poland, and that before starting for this country he had become nitached to a girl named Annie Sharpulite, who hved in his some town. She reciprocated his affection, and it was agreed that when Lake had no numulated sufficient money in this country he was to setid for her.

Lake worked here for some time, but his savings did not mount up with the rapidity four years of hard work he had only about the saved up. He began to long for a sight of his promised bride, and as he was then it steady work, he began planning to bring her over here. He did not want to invest all of his money on her trip, but a way was found out of this difficulty by the unexpected assistance of the girl's brother-in-law, John Kollmen, who had come to this country Lake. Kollusch volunteered to stand half the expenses of the girl's trip, giving as his reason that, being a witness, he wished to see the girl again in order to be reminded of his lost wife.

Lake jumped at the offer. He considered it the most natural thing in the world that Kellusch should wish to see Annie, and should be willing to pay for so doing. An-nic arrived in this city on a Thorsday in February, and was warmly received by Lake and her brother-in-law. Lake especially exerted himself in honor of the occasion, and tears rose to his eyes yesterday as he recounted the expenses he had in-curred during her short stay with him "I buy her hat, shoes, dress," he said, with buy her hat, shoes, dress," he said, with deep emotion, and wiped his eyes.

On the following Monday the couple went to the fleenese office and a license was issued to them. They were to have been married the next day, but when Lake arose expectantly in the morning he saw nothing of his intended bride, of the clothing he had purchased her or of his erstwhile friend, Koliusch, It took some time for him to arrive at a realization of the case, but he finally became convinced that his intended and the crafty Koliusch had eloped, and that he had been paying half eloped, and that he had been paying half the expenses of her trip for another man's iefit, instead of being the recipient of favor.

The next day Lake received a letter from Annie, stating that she and Kollusch were going to leave the city the same day. She gave no address in the letter, an unission which Lake resented greatly. Since that time Lake has not heard of her. He kept the heuse until yesterday, in the vain hepe that she would change her mind and return to him, but hope abandoned him, and he finally gave her up. He is now running a boarding-house on a small scale having four lodgers, although he only rens two rooms. In closing his atory yesterday he pointed dramstically to his apartments and eir furalture, and said; "See what she

the fact, in the House of Commons the other day, that over 12,000 troops have been sent to South Africa since the capture of Pretoria, which scarcely looks as if the war was over.

The stern treatment now being meted out to the Boers by banishing them to Coylen, and which is sending women into the Boer ranks, has created no little out-cry among those who are opposed to the war, though the majority appear to be no measures can be too severe in order to bring to an end the sangulaary struggle that is nearing its first anniversary.

The week in Parliament was marked by still another backdown by the Government withdrawing the clause of the army dil making volunteers available for service Such a swesping change in the force met with strenuous opposition on both sides, and after pleading for the proposal, the Under-secretary of State for War, George Wyndham, meekly withdrew it. This was anoth-er instance of the Government's amazing inability to feel the pulse of the House of Commons and the nation.

Robert Noakes, whose testimony in the Powers case began yesterday, was crossexamined by Judge Tinsley to-day. He said he was deceived into a talk with Colonel Campbell at Big Stone Gap, Va., prior to his arrest, where the latter met him, as Mr. Kramar, interested in mining. The conversation led into politics and then to the Goebel assassination. Later he found he was talking to the attorney for the prosecution. He said Campbell did not promise him anything for his testimony. Witness said that he had an idea that Goebel was to be killed, but he thought it would be in a fight and not by assassination. When told by John Powers to keep out of range, as some fellows in the lobby were going to do the work for Goebel when he came in, he hurried off to prevent the
